Rabbi's Message

True Unity Lies in Diversity

Friends, I would like to share my commentary on the Tower of Babel, which appeared on the URJ blog 10 Minutes of Torah on October 20th. Following the commentary, I share a few more words on how this well-known biblical narrative can inform our lives every day.

The Tower of Babel narrative has always bothered me. How could God have acted in this most unfair, jealous manner towards our ancestors? It used to outrage me that God destroyed a pretty good moment for the humans. Uniting into one voice, one place and one purpose was quite an accomplishment for the people who were last seen in the Noah narrative "filling the earth with violence" and terrorizing each other. Perhaps, the Babel Builders were completely misguided trying to rise up into the heavens, sword in hand, to challenge God's power. However, I always saw it this way: they were acting like ignorant, deluded children. Given a complete chance, they would have built a monolith that was destined to fall like a poorly built tower of playschool blocks. Their ambitions could have never come to fruition, because their goal was misguided from the start. If God waited long enough, the Babel Builders with their juvenile aspirations would have learned experientially that they were barking up the wrong tree.

They would have failed and moved on to a better understanding of architecture and theology. However, threatened by their unity, God jumps in prematurely and disrupts their union, which is never restored to this day. In my eyes, God had played it all wrong.

Now I see the Babel text differently. In contrast to their living as seventy different nations, the humans were able to create peace and harmony among themselves only when they were united by place, language and mission. God foils their plan and scatters them, and us, their descendants, in order to send a strong message, one still needed today. True peace, true unity lies in respectful diversity. The answer to the pre-flood human-against-human violence is not evolving into a homogenous unit; only when we learn to co-exist as different nations, cultures, religions, lifestyles and languages will we find true peace.

JCNWJ friends, when we think about celebrating difference, we usually think of the contrast between the broad differences to which I refer to above. Certainly, living in harmony, while respecting and even rejoicing in those dramatic differences is a very important goal, one which each person must dedicate him or herself to everyday. However, there is another, more subtle way to reach for harmony within difference. Each one of us must strive to tolerate and navigate the small differences which challenge us everyday. When we do not agree or even clash with others in our smaller communities, we have an opportunity to practice tolerance and acceptance. We can try to express our disagreement or displeasure in a manner which promotes peace. In the end, we may still disagree, but we can avoid layering anger, resentment, and pain on top of difference. In this way, we accept one another and our various approaches to life.

L'Shalom,

Rabbi Mary Zamore

President's Message

When I became President of the JCNWJ, one of my tasks included writing a monthly President's message. In writing past messages, I have attempted to avoid personalizing the messages, expressing my political views and writing on controversial religious topics. My messages have been primarily focused on our community and our connections to one another.

This month's message is an exception to my rule. As some of you are aware, immediately prior to the holidays, my mother suffered a major heart attack in the middle of the night that required immediate by-pass surgery. Thankfully, the surgery went well and she is on her way to recovery. In addition, my oldest brother has been experiencing serious health issues. The congregation was made aware of my family health issues as my family and I traveled to Western Maryland and could not spend Yom Kippur or break-the-fast with the congregation as we have each year since joining the Jewish Center seven years ago.

Through this trying time, the members of JCNWJ have showed amazing support to me and my family. Board members stepped up to pinch-hit for me at Yom Kippur services. Bob Margolis effectively delivered the High Holiday appeal (with some humorous flair I am told). Howie Hirsch took my place on the bimah, holding the Torah for Kol Nidre and assisting the Rabbi and the Cantor. Many congregants expressed their sincere concerns for both my mother and brother. Rabbi Zamore reached out on many occasions and even provided streamed Yom Kippur services which my family and I could view while at hospital visits during the holiday. Our student cantor, Lilah, added support as well. I truly felt part of a community that cares for one another, a community that I personally connect with and am proud to be a part of.

Thank you all for your support and kind words. Perhaps the best part is knowing that the same outpouring of support, encouragement and thoughtfulness would be there for any one of our members.

Meet our Kristallnacht Speaker

We welcome Claude Hagelberg as our speaker during our Shabbat service and Kristallnacht commemoration on Friday, November 7th at 7:30 pm. Kristallnacht, literally "Night of Crystal," is often referred to as the "Night of Broken Glass." The name refers to the wave of violent anti-Jewish pogroms which took place on November 9 and 10, 1938, throughout Germany, annexed Austria, and in areas of Czechoslovakia occupied by German troops. During the two days, at least 91 Jews were killed and as many as 30,000 were taken to concentration camps as rioters destroyed synagogues, looted Jewish-owned businesses, and desecrated Jewish cemeteries.

Mr. Hagelberg will reflect on his childhood in Constance, Switzerland, giving us insight on his experience of living right over the border from Germany in safety while Jews on the other side suffered at the hands of the Nazis. He will share vignettes which show what anti-Semitism was apparent to him as a child, and yet how relatively comfortably life was for Swiss-German Jews. Mr. Hagelberg will share the extraordinary story of being asked to greet a train full of concentration camp survivors at the end of the Holocaust. This presentation will give us a unique view of the Shoah, the Holocaust, from the other side of the border.

This presentation is open to the public; feel free to invite friends to join us. Our newly formed choir, led by Student Cantor Lilah Sugarman, will also be participating in this service.

Confirmation Class

Our next confirmation class will be November 2nd at 10:30 am.

Don't forget to bring your cellphones or tablets (with cameras) as we talk about holiness in our digital age.

It's never too late to join confirmation!

Education/PTO

October was a busy month for the PTO/Education Group. Thank you to our hardworking Sukkah crew: Teri Stanton, Ruth and Howie Schutzbank, Alan Goldfarb, Jeff Fenton, Gil, Marci and Tyler Braunstein, Sandy, Emma and Molly Kahan, Sheryl and Joe Feinstein, Joon Leifer and Sabrina Hutt. Thank you to Karl Gross for getting the corn stalks. We also had very special decorations hand-made by Ashley Braunstein, Heather Gross and Morah Suzie's class.

Our Simchat Torah Pizza Party was a huge success! It was great to see so many families there. I think the kids enjoyed the glow sticks and flashing pumpkin lights provided by Marci Braunstein.

The Simchat Torah service was definitely the highlight of the month. As the Religious School Chair, a parent, and, most of all, a member of our Temple community, seeing everyone holding the Torah as it was rolled out was quite spiritual. This was the second year I have participated in this ritual and it is not something to be missed.

As always, please do not hesitate to call or e-mail me with any questions.
